THE CHOLERA.

(DAILY TELEGRAM.)

PARIS, September 17.—The Petit Journal has received the following from Naples:—

The cholera made its appearance here several days ago, and eight or ten deaths are occurring daily. The authorities have kept this fact quiet in order that it should not prevent foreigners coming to the town. One case of cholera is reported from Capri.

(RUSSIAN TELEGRAM.)

HAMBURG, September 17.—In regard to the statement which has appeared in some English newspapers that twenty-four cases of cholera had occurred here, and that people in England had written or telegraphed to their relatives in Hamburg to come home, it is stated that yesterday's edition of the city gazette stated that there have only been two cases of cholera here, one of which was fatal, and that in both instances the sufferers had come from Hamburg.

A MAIL STEAMER FIRED AT.

(RUSSIAN TELEGRAM.)

NEW YORK, September 15.—The Herald publishes the following from Panama:—

This port has been closed against all steamers from Europe. The Koyal Mail Company's steamer Arcturion, after arriving at Colon, proceeded down the coast. On September 15 she was fired upon three times as she was passing the mouth of the Panama Canal.

The passengers proceeded to Cartagena, but being refused admission there, returned to Colon. Mr. Bryant, the health commissioner, in an interview regarding the outbreak of cholera in New York, said that while the disease existed in the city it did not originate there. No pains would be spared to trace its source. There might, he said, be cases of sporadic cholera over the city, but he thought that the disease would be speedily overcome. Mr. Edison, the sanitary superintendent, said that there was no danger of the cholera becoming epidemic, but there would probably be some sporadic cases for at least six days until the cold weather sets in.

MONTREAL, September 14.—The news that five deaths from Asiatic cholera had occurred in New York has created much excitement in Montreal, and the Central Board of Health will to-morrow proclaim the imposition of quarantine on arrivals from New York City.

There is a possibility that communication with that State may be completely severed.

PARIS, September 15.—Up to eight o'clock yesterday evening eight more deaths from cholera had been reported as occurring in Paris during the day.

ANTWERP, September 15.—Two children and a woman have died from the epidemic on board ships in the harbor since yesterday.

evidence showed that the defendants arrived at the Tyne about five o'clock on Friday from an infected port, and when questioned by the medical officer gave false addresses. Each defendant was fined £10 and costs.

FRUIT FROM HAMBURG.—A STARTLING STATEMENT.

Some days ago there arrived at Harwich a vessel laden with fruit, the bulk of which was consigned to Covent Garden Market. The fruit had been gathered in districts ravaged by cholera, and came from an infected port—Hamburg. On learning this, the medical officer of health at Harwich telegraphed to the Local Government Board, who in its turn at once informed the Strand authorities of the consignment being on its way to Covent Garden Market. The Strand officials made inquiries, and at length found the fruit at Bishopsgate Station, loaded up on vans, and about to be taken to the factory of a large firm of jam manufacturers to be converted into cheap jam. The Public Health Act, in the opinion of the authorities, did not authorize a seizure, as the fruit was not unwholesome. It might be dangerous to public health by reason of its coming from a cholera-stricken port, but neither the Public Health Act, nor the Cholera Bill, provided for such a seizure. The fruit was therefore taken away to the jam factory.

FLOODS IN CHINA.

GREAT LOSS OF LIFE.

SAN FRANCISCO, September 17.—Advice from China just received state that serious floods have occurred in Northern China, and that hundreds of lives have been lost.

LORD ROBERTS'S MISSION TO AFGHANISTAN.

BOMBAY, September 17.—A telegram from Allahabad states that the Ameer, in his reply to the last communication from the Indian Government in regard to Lord Roberts's mission to Afghanistan, recognizes the expediency of the mission, and expresses his willingness to accept the suggestion that the meeting should take place at Jalandhar.

THE AMER'S REPLY.

BOMBAY, September 16.—A rumour is current in the bazaars this morning that the Ameer has sent a favourable reply to the Indian Government's last despatch demanding the immediate withdrawal of the Afghan agents from Wana and the surrounding country.

WHOLESALE MURDERS.

MALACCA (Indian Territory), September 15.—At a conference held last night to devise means for restoring peace to the Chocoma tribe, it was resolved to demand all armed men who have been guilty of violence. The Sheriff's house is now surrounded by a mob, who declare that they will murder that officer. It is reported that sixteen men have been killed by a mob of twenty-eight Indians, and it is feared that there will be many more murders within the next twenty-four hours.

BELGIAN MINERS IN FRANCE.

BRUSSELS, September 15.—Replying to a letter from a member of the Chamber of Representatives calling attention to the treatment of Belgian miners in the north of France, Mr. Beernaert, the Premier, declares that the state of affairs reported to him has caused deep concern to the Belgian Government, which has entered into communication with the French Government on the subject. M. Beernaert expresses the hope that the Belgian miners will receive from the French Government the protection which the good relations between France and Belgium should secure to them.

LABOUR TROUBLES IN BELGIUM.

GRANMONT, September 15.—The strike which broke out some time ago in a match factory here, extended yesterday to all the other factories in the town. At Martin's factory only thirty men resumed work. The strikers attempted to prevent those who had not joined the movement from continuing at work, and their attitude became so threatening that it was found necessary to summon the gendarmes. When the latter arrived on the scene in the evening they were received with a shower of stones by the strikers, who continued for two hours hurling missiles at them. Finally the Civil Guard came to the assistance of the gendarmes and order was restored. Several gendarmes, a policeman, and a citizen were injured by the missiles of the rioters. The town is quiet this morning, but a renewal of the disturbances is apprehended this evening.

FIRE IN LONDON.

A MAN BURNED TO DEATH.

At a quarter past 10 on Friday night a fire occurred in a private house in Maroon-street, Limehouse. The fire, which was of no great extent, occurred in the passage and ground floor of the building, and was extinguished by means of buckets within twenty minutes of the alarm being given. Unfortunately Thomas Bolton, aged 70, was burned to death. At Maroon-street, Hackney, a fire was discovered shortly before 3 o'clock on Saturday morning at an umbrella shop. By the use of a hydrant the flames were extinguished, but not before considerable damage had been caused. Shortly after 7 o'clock on Friday night a fire broke out at Whiston-street, Haggerston, in a house of six rooms, used as workshops, &c. by Mr. Arrie. The house was totally destroyed, and Mrs. Mary Arrie, aged 31, who had to rush through the flames with her baby in her arms to escape from the building, was burned on the hands and out on the face, while the infant was also burned on the head. The origin of the outbreak has not been ascertained.

A CITY BUILDING SOCIETY SUSPENDS PAYMENT.

The London Provident Building Society and Bank 51, Moorgate-street, posted the following notice on their doors on Friday morning:—"Notice to depositors: In consequence of the drain on the available funds of the society, it has been decided with regret to discontinue for the present the payment of withdrawals. The depositors will be communicated with as early as possible."

The stoppage of the bank was due to the fact that the available funds of the society had considerably diminished, and consequently the directors deemed it advisable to stop payment for the present. The society was incorporated in 1885, and is now in the 28th year of its existence. The abstract of the accounts published last year as a Parliamentary paper is rather defective as regards some points. It appears, however, from it that the accounts made up to March 31st, 1890, showed that the total receipts during "the last financial year" were £1,246,000; but to that figure is appended the explanation that it is "exclusive of £250,877 deposits department, the whole of which was withdrawn during the year."

The liabilities at 31st March 1890, as shown in the balance sheet, were £1,246,000, and the deposits department, which was a separate account, amounted to £250,877. The total assets were £1,496,877, and the liabilities to £1,246,000. The deposits department, which was a separate account, amounted to £250,877. #### THE SPURIOUS DUKE OF TECK.

On Thursday, at the Mansion House Justice Room, Frederick Evans, 29, staying at the Hotel Victoria, was charged, on remand, before the Lord Mayor, with unlawfully obtaining by false pretences a cheque book from the Anglo-Austrian Bank, 31, Lombard-street.

Mr. Frank Dover, solicitor, prosecuted.

The defendant, after consultation with the manager of the bank, placed certain bills on the Austrian Treasury in their hands to collect, and he was given a cheque-book.

The bills proved to be absolutely worthless. On being arrested the defendant said that there had been no false pretences, as the cheque-book had been given to him voluntarily. He described himself as "Frederick Evans, Duke of Teck," and upon being asked a question about his umbrella and other things had the royal arms upon them, and in his portmanteau he had a large number of printed slips descriptive of "his Grace," who, it was stated, was "a great friend of the Church and the Majesties, ex-Government authorities, and police in general of the Austrian and German Empires."

Among a mass of papers was discovered a letter from the Duke of Portland, Mr. Brooke Robinson, M.P., and the Mayor of Dudley, in recognition of his having done honour to that town by beating there all world records in jumping, from one up to twenty successive springs. With or without dumb-bells he has for years past beaten all comers. His engagement at the Empire games on the 24th inst., when he won a flat race with Bruton for £30 a side. Darby is a non-smoker and a man of regular and energetic habits.

Particulars of a dastardly outrage at Atherton, near Manchester, have just been received. A middle-aged man named Collinson, who had been working at a distance from his home, was returning, when he saw an old man and a young one about to fight in the road. He interfered in the interests of peace, whereupon the combatants fell upon him, knocked him down, kicked him in the head and face, broke one of his ribs, and otherwise injured him. They decamped, leaving him for dead, and they have not yet been found.

A GIRL HOUSEBREAKER.

At the South Western Police Court on Friday, Annie Willmott, 14, residing in Balham, was accused of breaking into and entering 12, Ormsley-terrace, Balham, and stealing therefrom a pearl bracelet and other things, valued at £5. The property of Arthur Robinson Watkins, a commercial traveller.

Prosecutor said the prisoner had been employed to clean the doorsteps of the house, which was left unoccupied from Saturday, the 3rd, to Monday, the 5th inst. When he returned home he found the front door open. The window at the back was

Travelling managers and circus troupes furnish many an entertaining paragraph in the newspapers. One of the latest extraordinary incidents that has occurred in the life of these establishments is a desperate fight between a monkey and a serpent, which took place at Luton and must have eclipsed interest even the Sullivan-Corbett encounter. A large monkey is reported to have found way to a serpent—species not mentioned. The two animals fought for a considerable time, in spite of the fact that the monkey's keeper joined in and slew the reptile in order to save the ape. Even this was difficult to do, we are told, and I quite believe it. A serpent can stand a great amount of killing as a rule, but when he

The Actors' Association has at length done something! It has produced a sort of "moderately agreeable" between actors and managers. In this there is a clause referring to payment for rehearsals. But it is a half-hearted clause, not half drastic enough. I hold it brief either for managers or for players, but it is certain that there ought to be some remuneration for attendance at rehearsals.

Mr. Gladstone was very complimentary to the Radicals at Carnarvon. He praised their generosity in allowing Ireland to be helped first, and promised that their patience should have its reward. He gave, in fact, a sort of pledge that they should receive "an earnest" of his good intentions for them, even in session. The promise has been understood to mean that a bill will be brought in to prohibit the creation of any more vices.

The bodice, an open-fronted jacket, needed no altering, except the addition of five rows of brown braid on the cuffs to correspond with the trimming on the skirt. My friend made herself a tight-fitting vest of smooth tan-coloured cloth for wearing with the bodice on cool days in place of her washable vests. The hat she had worn with this gown while away was in a most dilapidated condition. It was a pretty, well-trimmed affair

LAST WEEK'S ITEMS.

The sudden fall of the temperature and the heavy rain somewhat retarded the recovery of M. de Giers.

Martha Ann Deveron, 45, wife of a waiter, living at Lynton-road, Bournemouth, was found dead in bed.

The grand historic procession representing the return of Columbus from America took place at Gannon with great eclat.

Albert Mason, 11, while climbing a wall fell and became impaled on an iron spike.

He was removed to St. Thomas's Hospital.

Prince Ferdinand, accompanied by his mother, the Princess Clementine, arrived at Philippopolis and visited the exhibition.

Henry James, 62, painter, Bridge-street, Stepney, was taken to the London Hospital, suffering from concussion of the brain and lacerated scalp wounds, caused by falling from a ladder.

Second Lieut. J. G. Croby, 3rd Volunteer Battalion the Royal Fusiliers, obtained a medical certificate with "special mention" as the August School of Instruction, Wellington Barracks.

Albert Metcalf, 25, Bartholomew Buildings, Goswell-road, was crossing Goodge-street, when he slipped and fell in front of a coal van, which passed over his leg. He was taken to the Middlesex Hospital.

A party of about 150 members of the Oxford Congress proceeded to Oxford, and after visiting the principal places of interest at the University, attended a garden party in the private grounds of the Warden of Wadham College.

At Finsbury a quantity of jewellery has been stolen, and thieves in the Bow-street district carried off some wearing apparel. The most serious burglary was a warehouse at Shadwell, where the "haul" comprised over £500.

A sum of nearly £15,000 has been contributed towards this year's Hospital Saturday Fund (including £5,000, the result of the ladies' street collection). It is too early to anticipate the ultimate result, as the collection will be carried on in the various metropolitan workshops weekly until the end of the year.

Information was received of the finding of the remains of a child under a floor during the demolition of a house in Little Queen-street, and bore a bad reputation. The remains which are quite dried up are believed to be those of a newly born child.—Dr. Cliffe stated that it must have been there for at least thirty years.

An inquest was held at Bristol with reference to the death of Edwin Mutton, 71. The evidence showed that the deceased had been subject to fainting fits, and that one evening he entered a public-house and after reading a paper complained of a pain in his head. His head was rubbed with whisky, but he was dead in the chair when a doctor arrived, death being attributed to heart failure.

At the Bedford Police Court Joseph Kesteliner, innkeeper, was summoned for furious driving. It was stated that defendant was driving at night at about fourteen miles an hour and ran into another trap. Considerable interest was taken in the case owing to the fact that the horse in question recently trotted in a match against time, when it covered 15 miles in 50 minutes.—Defendant was ordered to pay £5.

The body of Henry Beer, the boatman drowned through the capsizing of his boat on September 1st at Folkestone, was recovered on the 10th, and an inquest was held during the afternoon. Mr. Harrold, of Hyde Park, who was in the boat at the time, said it was overturned by an abnormally heavy wave. He saw nothing of Beer. A verdict of death by drowning was returned, and a coroner had been raised on behalf of the widow.

Two children, named Buchanan, were seated in a cab by the side of the canal basin in the Fountainbridge district of Edinburgh, when the horse moved too near the water's edge and fell in, carrying the cab and its occupants with it. The struggles of the children, and the cries of the cabmen, were heard by a policeman, who rushed to the spot and secured the lifeless body of one child. The body of the other child was subsequently recovered.

A rather alarming fire took place in Hanover-street, Cheltenham, on some premises formerly used for manufacturing non-intoxicating drinks. They were largely constructed of wood, and in consequence of their close proximity to St. Paul's Church the safety of the latter exercised the minds of the police and firemen, who were early on the spot. An adjoining house was fortunately saved but all the workshops were gutted, the plant, stock, and tools destroyed.

Henry Parker, 37, painter, Balcombe-place, Dorset-square, was working at the Gymnasium, Portman-square, when he found the ladder was unsafe and he was about to descend. Instead of getting a shorter one, he stood this one out at the bottom, and when he ascended to go on with his work his weight caused the ladder to slip and he fell. He was taken to the Middlesex Hospital, and found to be suffering from concussion of the brain.

At Doncaster Police Court a man named William Johnson was charged with the theft of a gun-case, cartridges, and traps, belonging to Gen. Owen Williams. The general was the guest of Lord Londale during the race week at a residence rented in the town, and the articles were purloined during the absence of the party at the races. The prisoner was detected selling the traps in a market, and on his arrest other property was found on his person. He was sent to prison for three months with hard labour.

An inquest on the boy Grice, who died from the effects of a blow on the nose with a toy sword, was held at St. Helens. Dr. Casey deposed that the bones of the nose were fractured, and effusion of blood on the brain caused an abscess, which burst, resulting in death. The coroner advised the jury that the boy, of 3 years, who struck the blow, was not responsible for the action, and the jury, while attributing death to the blow received, returned a verdict of accidental death.

A BIG MONEY COME.

During some alterations at the parish church of Long Clawson, a village between Melton Mowbray and Grantham, the workmen, while taking down the west wall, discovered a large quantity of honey. The comb measured five feet in length, and was two feet in width. It is supposed that the west end of the church has been inhabited by bees for more than twenty-five years, as during the whole of that time they have been seen in the vicinity, and not infrequently have been observed sitting about inside the sacred edifice during divine service.

THE ALTHORP MURDER.

POLICE-COURT PROCEEDINGS.

Interest in the Althorp mystery reached a high pitch on the 10th inst., when the prisoner Macrae, who is charged with having murdered Annie Pritchard, was brought before the magistrates at the County-hall, Northampton.

The court-house, which is on the ground floor, was besieged at an early hour by a vast crowd of people. There was some hope expressed that the prisoner might be driven up to the place in a cab, and that a night might be obtained of him, but in this the people who crowded the street were sadly disappointed. Macrae was brought down to the court-house at an extremely early hour of the morning.

He was in his pockets, or what might be better described as a primitive looking van. Still the crowd, as the hours went on, grew larger and larger.

The police were with difficulty able to keep the people under control. A few minutes before 12 o'clock a noisy rush was made for the court doors, but additional assistance was forthcoming and the crowd was held back. Inside the building the position at the back of the court, allotted to the public was densely packed. At one time, the barrier dividing the spectators from those who had business within the precincts of the County Hall threatened to give way altogether, but the crowd settled down when the prisoner was brought in between two warders. He is a young man of medium height and slight build. His face is long and thin, and he wears a brown moustache, pointed at the ends. He looked unutterably nervous and depressed, this being added to by the fact that he was unshaven and dirty. He glanced nervously around the court when he entered, but throughout the hearing of the evidence displayed the utmost indifference. At times he placed his hands in his pockets, or folded his arms across his chest.

The witness in whom most interest centred, was of course the sister of the murdered woman. She is a pale, thin, and nervous-looking woman, and gave her evidence with clearness, though it was evident she was suffering from extreme nervousness. Before she had finished a glass of water had to be supplied to her, and indeed, when the clothing found upon the mutilated body was shown to her it seemed as if she were about to faint. The proceedings lasted exactly an hour.

Supt. Alexander, the officer in charge of the case in addressing the magistrates stated that the prisoner was charged—"That he did within the past six months wilfully murder one Annie Pritchard." He only proposed on the present occasion to call four witnesses.

On the 8th inst. he saw the public prosecutor, who asked him to request the magistrates to adjourn the case, and on the next occasion the Treasury would be represented.

The first witness was Supt. Alexander, of the Northampton police. He said that on Sunday, the 7th ult., he went to the parish of East Haddon for information. He there saw a ditch on the left hand side of the road a body, the head and arms of which were missing. He called in the assistance of a doctor before he removed the body to the Red Lion public-house. Upon close examination it was found to be the mutilated body of a female.

An inquest was held, and an open verdict was returned. Upon the body was a chemise, nightdress, two skirts, and a pair of stockings. It was done up in canvas, which was made from an old sack cut open, and had a label tied to it with the name of E. N. Barnes, Northampton, written on it. There was also a lot of lines the sack.

THE SISTER'S EVIDENCE.

Annie Pritchard, a tall, bright-looking girl, dressed in black, was the next witness, and she was provided with a seat whilst giving her evidence. She said she lived at 85, Highgate-road, Birmingham. She had known the prisoner about seven years; his house was next to theirs; they were on very intimate terms with him, but she never saw him out with the deceased woman, who was 20 years of age. She last saw her dead at the house of the prisoner on the 22nd March of the present year. She did not see the prisoner in Birmingham at that time, but he had heard about a fortnight afterwards that he had gone to Northampton. (At this point a green skirt was produced. It was the dress found on the murdered woman's body, and holes were eaten in the fabric by the action of the lime.) Witness identified the skirt as belonging to her sister. She also identified several other articles of wearing apparel, including a fannel bodice and a grey dress trimmed with astracan. She had seen her sister make the dress, and would swear they were hers.

Mrs. Harriet Burrell, the wife of a labourer, was first asked how she spelt her name, and replied, "Burrell." She was at Mrs. Thornton's in March or April last and saw the prisoner come with a lady to the house. They afterwards removed to Mrs. Pilkington's, and she helped them with their luggage. They were LIVING AT MAN AND WIFE.

The deceased woman was confined on 23rd of June of a male child. About the 20th of July the prisoner came and fetched the lady from her house. She identified a photograph of the deceased woman as the lady who was living with the prisoner. She nursed her during her confinement, and the green skirt (the one found on the dead body) she put on when she got up after her illness. The couple went under the name of Anderson.

Mrs. Louisa Bland, 9, College-street, Northampton, and a very typical "old codger" lady, stated she knew the prisoner by sight through being a customer at her second-hand clothes shop. The three dresses, one jacket, some underlinen, and a table cloth produced she purchased from the prisoner about three weeks before Bank Holiday.

AN UNPLEASANT SURPRISE.
At the Old Beller, John Kelly, 22.

Richard Mitchell, 19, were indicted for breaking into the dwelling-house of Mrs. Maria Harley, Acton.—Mr. Haven pronounced.—The indictment failed because it was alleged that the window through which the men had entered had been left open, and that the prisoner, Mitchell, had been charged to be quiet.—The Common Sergeant remarked that as the grand jury had not been charged he should direct another indictment to be laid before them charging the prisoner with attempting to steal. They were removed to the cells somewhat crestfallen, and later in the day they were tried upon the new indictment.—The Common Sergeant said that the grand jury of assaulting the constable arresting him savagely kicking him. Kelly had been many times convicted, several times for assaulting the police, and Mitchell, who was described as "a corner boy," had been nine times sentenced for assaulting constables and women.—On one occasion he was sentenced to three months for assaulting a woman in the office.—The Common Sergeant said that the prisoners to twelve months' hard labor each for the attempted robbery, and addressed Mitchell he said it was bad enough that man should go about the streets of London robbing people's houses, but it was still more outrageous that he should commit savage and brutal assaults upon officers of the law.—The Common Sergeant said that nothing like this would be so serious with

THE ALTHORP MURDER. The Northamptonshire police have virtually completed the gathering of evidence in the Althorp murder case. The numerous ash bones discovered by the Borough police the 6th inst. among the ashes in the copse fire hole of Dyechurch-lane warehouse, where the prisoner was manager, are now described as "human remains" who has certainly been examined to be human finger-bones. They are very small, and are blackened calcined by the action of fire, and it was doubtful if any one would be able to give opinion as to their origin. The police attach great importance to this declaration, their theory has been that the murder committed in this warehouse and the mutilated there. This evidence regarding the bones, that they belong to a woman in London, the police believe completes the chain of circumstantial evidence upon which their case is founded. A London witness has been discovered by Salvation Army, and her appearance, removed, will import another sensation to the case. Mr. Edward Rae, the prisoner's brother, visited Northampton Gaol on Wednesday, but in consequence the number of visitors was unable to see him.

VIOLENT ASSAULT ON A MAID.
TRAFFIC.
At Sevenoaks Police Court, before Sackville and Major German, Florio Baker, a young woman, who said she came from Notting Hill, London, was charged with assaulting and beating Mr. Samuel Wren, a justice of the peace for the county of Kent and chairman of the Sevenoaks Board of Health. Mr. Wrenford stated that at 4.30 p.m. on the 14th inst. he was walking through Riverhead, near Sevenoaks, when he saw the prisoner lying on the ground. He went to her, thinking she was in a fit, and, up, and in endeavouring to strike him tore his clothes and knocked his eye-glasses from his hand. He fetched a constable and gave her into custody. It was, he stated, almost impossible for respectable people to pass by without noticing her. She was full of hop-pickers. The prisoner, who she was very sorry, was sentenced to six days' hard labour.

A FIST TO THE STREETS.
Sarah Haley, 33, one of the worst characters at the East-end, was charged, at the The Police Court, with disorderly conduct, assaulting Constable 90 H. and with attempting to commit suicide.—On Tuesday defendant was found in Martha-street, 8, well, making use of bad language, and would not go away, had to be locked up. While being charged at the station defendant struck Constable 90 H. a blow on the nose. Afterwards, when in the cell, Haley tried to strangle herself by tightly tying the strap of her apron round her throat. These actions, and her conduct in the cell, were noted, and a letter of her kind was sent to the hands of one of her skirts, and was given in endeavour to strangle herself. A large number of convictions were put against the accused.—Mr. Mead presided.

NIGHT CRIMES IN PARIS.
Midnight street crimes in Paris are becoming as numerous as burglaries. Since after twelve o'clock on Wednesday morning a peaceful and respectable citizen was ringing home, when he was called upon to "and deliver" in the Rue de Vanves, by nocturnal robbers. The street is a lonely in the Montrouge district, and no police were about. The man resolved to show but was knocked down. When on the ground a knife was held to his throat, and threats of instantaneous death he was compelled to hand over his purse, his watch chain, and a ring of considerable value. The robbers kicked and beat him until he almost insensible. Then they left him the police soon afterwards arrived helped the injured man home. of the street bandits were arrested in the Luxembourg gardens, but before they had made a determined attack. A more daring robbery was committed at La Chapelle by three other marauders. A tradesman who was looking at a boot suddenly accosted by the trio, who told him that he was wanted by the police, and they intended to arrest him. The man protested that he was innocent of any crime, and the trio, however, determined to punish him. The sham detectives tied his hands behind his back and pushed him down a dark alley where they calmly set to work to rob him. He begged for mercy, but they told him as they rifled him of his money. The man made use of his lungs to good effect, and the threats of his aggressors, and his cries attracted the attention of two policemen.

Thomas Brian, 40, was charged at Lau with assaulting William West, a packing maker, residing at 18, Mary-street, Ste —Prosecutor, whose head was bandaged the accused was his landlord, and brother-in-law. On Tuesday afternoon went into the yard, where he saw the man who had a military bayonet in his hand. Brian threatened to run the bayonet through him. Witness got out of the yard as he could, and went upstairs. As he was going out of the door later on Brian threatened him on the head with the bayonet. —In the examination witness denied threatening "knife" Brian. The latter had previously broken one of his ribs. —Constable 3 stated that when he arrested Brian he did not find him armed. —Did you, defendant, in answer to the charge, seek a prosecutor for the rent, and read an impudent reply. He acknowledged the prosecutor. Defendant received a good character. —Mr. Mead told him to run a great risk of being sent to prison. He (the magistrate) was always reluctant to send a man there. —Did you want to find one more man in £10 to the peace, or so to prison for the same.

who had gone to purchase a pocket-handkerchief, and that her bag and cloak were at the Central Station. He gave him a cloak-room ticket, and after prisoner was looked up, witness went with the inspector and obtained a bag, a lady's cloak, and the prisoner's overcoat. Witness was then to examine the bag before giving up the cloak, and when it was opened he found receipt for 25 from the West Indies and Pacific Steamship Company, for a passage by the Texan, made out in the name of Mr. Stanley. He also came upon a guide to Mexico. He gave the cloak to the lady, and then returned to London, and after he had taken his bag, he found among a number of important articles, a bill-case, in which were paid bills of exchange to the amount of £197,000. The names upon them chiefly were those of the Earl of Londesborough, Mr. Scott, Mr. C. Scott, and Dr. Scott-Baile. There were also among them six bills of the Earl of Londesborough's signatures, apparently of letters, one of Mr. Hugh Scott's, and one of the Earl of Londesborough's cut out of the middle of a bill of exchange. Another contained three statements of accounts, headed "Harrison and Davis"; two others, the one foregoing in the handwriting of a prisoner named John Harrison, dated 18th, 1890, not in handwriting; a piece of paper dated 4th, 1892, with the word "Londesborough" on it in pencil, and also the words, "£3 bill three mos. bill for interest"; another piece of paper bearing the words "Hugh J. E. Scott, Londesborough, 1892"; and a bill of exchange, the date of which had been produced.—After some further evidence the case was adjourned.

FIRING A PILLAR LETTER-BOX.
At Westminster, John Burton, 43, a recently-dressed man, who described himself as a porter, and stated that he had no job, was charged, before Mr. De Bussche, with feloniously placing combustible material in a post-office letter-box at 11, Abchurch Lane, with intent to set the same, or any other letter-box, on fire, and with intent to commit wilful damage.—The prisoner was seen loitering in the neighbourhood of Eaton Square from half-past 11 on Tuesday night. At half-past 12 P.C. Gray, 339 B, saw him at Chester-street, and asked him what he was about. He replied, "I've done it, and pointed to the pillar letter-box, from which smoke and flame were issuing. The constable closed the mouth of the letter-box with a handkerchief, and in that way smothered the fire inside, after which he took the prisoner into custody. On the way to the station the prisoner said, "I have no home and nowhere to go, and no one to get any work to do. I did this to get sent somewhere. You can do what you like with me." The pillar-box was afterwards opened by an officer from the district police, who found that it contained a quantity of half consumed paper, and a quantity of beer, and a tin of some resinous substance. Instantly the box had been cleared out at midnight, and there appeared to have been no letters in it when the fire occurred. Sergt. Kenna deposed that when charged the prisoner said, "I wanted a lodging, and I thought it was the best way to get it." An officer from the General Post Office and inquiries were made, and Mr. De Bussche remanded him.

COUNTERFEIT COIN.
William Johnston, aged 61, bricklayer, pleaded guilty at the Old Bailey to uttering and possessing counterfeit coin.—Ward produced a list of previous convictions, which included five long terms of penal servitude for coinage and other offences. Johnston made a piteous appeal for mercy when asked what he had to say in mitigation of sentence. "This day, my lord," said he, "shall be the turning point of my life. In the future I will truly endeavour to reform myself. I beg and pray of you to take me into consideration. Send me not now in declining years into another term of penal servitude." The Commis. began to say that the accused had earned a right to have spent the greatest portion of his life in prison for the commission of a very serious class of offence. He ordered him to be kept in penal servitude for three years.—(Johnston (to his lordship): Thank

WHAT ROYALTY EATS.
Someone with an abundance of leisure has collected interesting statistics on the curious subject of royal appetites. The appetite most eagerly satisfied with the largest amount of food is that of the Emperor. One can hardly have guessed it from his youth as well as from his ancestry. The Hohenzollerns (family had always the most primitive tastes, as anyone who has seen Frederick the Great's dining-room at Potsdam will readily credit. William II. is said to be extremely undiscriminating, and with a most excellent appetite. This is not so with the Emperor. He is very discriminating, rather with the Austrian Emperor. They are difficult at the table, and in every way different to the King of Wurttemberg, whose tastes are the simplest, and who has a singular penchant for a beefsteak served with onions. And which of all European sovereigns reigns has done most to refine the art of dining to the dignity of a fine art? It is the Emperor of Russia. He curiously combines quality and quantity. His appetite is large, and his taste delicate. The office of Imperial caterer at St. Petersburg is no sinecure. The caterer, if hard worked, is well paid. Of course this chief of a household at Strasbourg has done much to refine his chef, when he had to emphasize the fact that he remained Frenchman. The Czar knew the treasure he had secured, gave him the rank of colonel, which allows him to bear a sword as well as a stepman, and recognizing his patriotic sentiments considerably allowed over the rule which should be followed by his chef. The Emperor of Austria has chosen an imperial caterer to the Emperor of all the Russias remains a citizen of France.

at the Old Bailey, to George Bowman.—Mr. Broome, prosecuted, Mr. George Harris, accused. Harris had offices in a shipchapel where he carried on the business of a shipping agent. The allegations against him were that he induced the presence to part with the sum of £15 as passage money, he being desirous of emigrating to the United States, and his wife and prisoner giving in exchange a ticket, purporting to have been issued from the offices of the Orient for a passage in the steamship Eoman, such vessel was in existence. It was said that a series of complaints had been received from diverse persons of the conduct of the system of fraud, which he believed to be carried to a very considerable extent at East-end, where unfortunate emigrants were taken to this country, ignorant of English laws, customs, and shipping, who fell into the hands of swindlers like the prisoner, who it seemed to him was the duty of the Court to strip of all in their power to stop this kind of fraud. Prisoner would have to go to gaol for years with hard labour.—Barris, on being the sentence, fainted away, and had to be carried from the dock.

SUICIDE AFTER ELOPEMENT.

The deceased had been engaged to a sailor, and being disappointed was not returning home as expected after a long absence, she married a former lover. A fortnight after her marriage the sailor returned and she eloped with him; but repenting of this, she returned home and committed suicide. A verdict of temporary insanity was returned.

At Brighton they bought a boat for 47 from a waterman on the beach, sailed about for several days, and then resold the craft. Then they went to Bournemouth, being accompanied by the elder Palmer, Mabel, for whom various costly purchases were made. The party then came down the prisoner Beaz; went to the house of the elder Palmer, and there spent money and went out in a pony cart, for which he paid 25s. a day for three days; gave the girl presents of jewellery and clothing, and stayed at the place (a coffee shop) in Battersea, London. The money was not deposited with the prisoner as a guarantee that the witness would marry the man, and that it should be returned as soon as the ceremony had taken place. Sarah said she heard the prisoner say to the prosecutrix she had "a man" for her, and also wanted to know how much money she could get. Dickinson said the man's intention was to go to the court, but the prosecutrix was for a civil court, and not for a criminal one, and eventually discharged the prisoner.
